TREATY FIGHT IS ENGULFED IN FINAL COINTEST

Navy Delay Prevented Early Peace-Sims

LACK OF SUPPORT BY SEC. DANIELS IS DISCLOSED

REAR ADMIRAL CHARGES TIME WASTED IN ENTERING FRAY.

REPORT TO SENATE

Officer Says His Recommendations Were Not Heeded in Washington.

Washington, March 10.—Failure of the navy department to fully cooperate in the war during the first six months after America's entry cost half a million lives, fifteen billions of dollars, 2,500,000 tons of shipping, and prevented a victory over Germany by July, 1918, Rear Admiral Sims told the senate investigating committee today in presenting documentary evidence in support of his charges of delay against the department.

Reads 1917 Recommendation.—The officer read to the committee the recommendation made to the department in 1917. A cablegram sent late in April, 1917, said the critical area where the war would be fought at the focus of all lines of ocean communication to England and France. Admiral Sims told the committee that although he repeatedly urged that every destroyer and small craft that could be sent to sea be dispatched immediately to this area, his recommendation was not complied with until about six months later.

Suggestions are Disregarded.—He also recommended he said, that two divisions of the American dreadnaughts be sent to the base on Brest to guard against raids into the English channel by the German cruisers but this recommendation was entirely disregarded.

If the tonnage lost in 1917 had been added to the prompt cooperation of the navy, he said, America could have had a million men in France at the beginning of 1918 instead of 600,000.

1918 Peace Possible.—Admiral Sims said the German offensive of 1918 was due to the failure of the German navy to blockade the English coast and that in all probability it never would have been undertaken and the morale of the German people would have been broken by the American troops had been more promptly dispatched to France. He estimated on the basis of what happened when the American forces entered the war that the peace could have been achieved by July, 1918 if the tonnage had been preserved.

Admiral Sims said the first real decision as to participation in the war, Admiral Sims says, was contained in a cablegram to him in 1917. The cablegram said the American government intended to send 336 destroyers, one tender and a mineship to the English coast. He asked for minute information regarding the possibility of obtaining necessary supplies at Bresthaven, the probable base.

Invoked Aid of Force.—Admiral Sims said that when he found that his own efforts to impress upon the navy the importance of the situation were unavailing he invoked the aid of the late Ambassador Page at London.

Page's Report.—On April 27, 1917, Page sent a confidential cablegram to Secretary Lansing and President Wilson declaring that "there is reason for the greatest anxiety about the issue of the war caused by the increasing success of German submarines."

Request Is Unheeded.—Even this request was unheeded for some months, Admiral Sims said. The witness read to the committee the British government "appreciated" what the United States was doing to keep down submarine warfare.

Incidentally, he added, "that is a case of international politeness. They were thanking us for sending six destroyers."

Reads Message From Daniels.—He read a department message sent to him in May and signed by Secretary Daniels.

"In regard to convoys," it read, "I consider American vessels having armed guards safer when sailing in convoys."

"When I got that message I was about ready to jump overboard," declared Admiral Sims. "I realized that the department did not understand or appreciate the situation."

What They Say

Wilson's Treaty Letter Is Commented on by Paris Editors. Who See No Loss of Mentality.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Paris, March 10.—President Wilson's letter to Senator Hitchcock regarding reservations to the Versailles treaty was given little space and a minor position in most of this morning's newspapers.

"Mr. Wilson," the Gaulois says, "takes revenge for the silence imposed upon him by illness. In less than 24 hours he presents us with two documents in which he affirms in a singularly aggressive manner that he has recovered full possession of his mastery faculties."

"His anti-imperialist formula will bring new encouragement to international bolshevism, under cover of which the United States will take revenge, which Mr. Wilson denounces but not with the clearness and energy we expected from his fairness, it is not from his intellect."

French Accusation "Impudent."—The Paris Midi says the accusation of France as militaristic is "impudent" and it refers to Mr. Wilson's "cautious insult to this country. It adds:

"Mr. Wilson accuses France of being militaristic and at the same time Joseph Daniels, secretary of the American navy, is the only minister in the world who announces an unlimited program of armaments."

"Today there are more conscious of the necessities of France but there is no longer a militarist party properly speaking."

TURKS HAVE EIGHTH CABINET SINCE PEACE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Constantinople, March 10.—Sali Pasha, the new grand vizier, has announced to the cabinet the formation of a new cabinet, the eighth since the armistice. Diplomats in this city attach little importance to the changes made, considering the cabinet to be virtually powerless to oppose the nationalist group in the chamber, which is directed by Mustafa Kemal from Ankara.

Only three new members were appointed to the cabinet, they being Djalal Bey, president of the council of state, and in regard to the cabinet, and Omar Houslouss Bey, minister of pious foundation.

POLITICS SWINGING FAST PREPARATORY TO JUNE CONVENTIONS

Party Line-ups for Presidential Candidates Are Taking Form.

Washington, March 10.—Political happenings of the last 24 hours having a bearing on the national campaign were many. West Virginia endorsed John D. Davis, U. S. senator, as a candidate for president.

In a letter to a friend in California, made public yesterday, Herbert Hoover states that he was a progressive republican and is still an independent progressive. It is believed that the letter will take Mr. Hoover off the democratic lists.

Mr. Wood delegates carried New Hampshire.

Michigan officials refused to allow McCauley's name to come off the primary ballot.

W. J. Bryan starts fight on Sen. Hitchcock in Nebraska.

Tom Taggart, democratic war horse of Indiana, refuses to run for the senate.

23000 MILLIONAIRES MADE BY WAR SAYS SEN. GRONNA

Washington.—The war made 23,000 American millionaires, according to the declaration of Senator Gronna. He held the revenue act law enacted by the Democrats responsible for this output.

Mr. Gronna deprecated the pawning of Liberty bonds to raise money with which to speculate.

The people who bought the $26,000,000,000 of Liberty bonds, said Senator Gronna, have sustained a loss of $1,750,000,000 thus far.

The new millionaires, said Senator Simmons, who was chairman of a finance committee when the revenue act was passed.

"The consumer always catches it. But if we had doubled the taxes he would have caught it twice as hard."

WILSON LETTER KILLS HOOVER

MAY MEAN THIRD TERM CANDIDACY FOR THE PRESIDENT.

(BY DAVID LAWRENCE.) (Copyright, 1920, by Janesville Gazette.)

Washington, D. C., March 10.—Were it not for the fact that the political cloud hangs heavy over everything nowadays, Mr. Wilson's desire to continue his term in office would be a surprise.

Mr. Wilson's letter to Senator Hitchcock regarding the Versailles treaty, which he sent to the White House yesterday, has been interpreted by President Wilson to the literature of the treaty debate—his letter to Senator Hitchcock on Article Ten—would have fallen on more fertile soil.

But the White House and congress have rubbed each other the wrong way so long that Mr. Wilson's appeal on the merits of article ten itself—wherein he pointed to the dangers of militarism and the return to the old order of things in Europe unless the United States put the weight of its moral influence on the scales—hardly had the effectiveness of his appeal.

Does Not Mind Sensibilities.—The president continues to hurt the sensibilities of voters, both democrats and republicans, forgetting that while they themselves may not be disposed to see the broad view of the situation, they are not so sure that they do, they nevertheless have enough votes to ratify or reject the treaty.

Wilson and Rear Admiral Grayson, his physician, accompanied them.

DUTCH AND BRITISH VIE IN ELECTIONS IN SOUTH AFRICA

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, March 10.—Parliamentary elections being held today in the Union of South Africa, voters are believed to decide the fate of the government held by Jan Christian Smuts, which is contending against the Unionist party.

The result may decide whether Cape Colony, the Transvaal, Orange Free State and Natal, five to come under a republic under its own flag and with an elected president.

South Africa is valuable to Great Britain because of its strategic position, it is believed, would meet with strong opposition from the British government.

There are only two days more and at the rate established today the drive will fall short just 34 names.

Daniel Weigle, of the American City bureau, stated to the Gazette that he was well pleased with the beginning, but also added that three times the number of solicitors in the teams ought to be possible with a present membership of 684.

Boosting Spirit.—A new "boost" spirit seemed to prevail wherever solicitors went, none of them reporting any difficulty in getting cards signed.

When the members of the Chamber reported to the office today and were assigned to teams and districts, prospect cards were distributed into 15 divisions by W. F. Yahn, supervisor of the drive.

Streamers appeared in store windows and on the streets. The drive will be thrown, open and ready to resort to cleaning up the cards.

Other firms boost their plural memberships in the same proportion as the Chamber of Commerce, he declared.

OLD ACTOR, TRYING TO BE YOUNG, FILLED UP WITH PARAFFIN

Paris.—Jack Deann, husband of Fanny Ward, is considering having an operation performed for removal of paraffin from his chin, where it fell after his had injections made in his cheeks and nose to make him look younger.

Deann formerly played in the movies with Fanny, but, growing older, had to have his face rejuvenated, filling out the hollows, thereby making paraffin, instead of being absorbed by the system, began dropping toward his chin, and Deann now has a hump, wide chin, full of paraffin.

Surgeons are unable to promise that operations for a removal will not leave a scar which would prevent his acting.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, March 10.—Many former soldiers men are anxious to assist in reclaiming government lands to provide homes for themselves, Representative Mondell, Wyoming, republican leader, said today, declaring that the situation in the country is holding hearings on soldier relief legislation.

That congress in the near future must undertake an extensive program of attracting people back to the country and making waste lands productive, as the "cities now are more attractive than ever before."

COURT DECISION ON INCOME TAX COSTS U. S. HALF BILLION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, March 10.—The loss to the government as a result of the supreme court's decision declaring stock dividends not taxable as income will be nearly half a billion dollars, according to estimates today by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Roper.

With some 4,000,000 dividend returns to be filed, it will take months to make an accurate estimate to the effect of the decision, Mr. Roper said, but a hasty search indicates that $70,000,000 paid in 1917 and 1918 will have to be returned, while the loss in uncollected taxes in 1919 will be $100,000,000, and in 1920 $100,000,000.

Some of this loss, the commissioner said, will be offset by the tax on stock sales. Mr. Roper emphasized that estimates of the government's loss are not official and that the loss might be found to be larger than now estimated.

WARFARE BREAKS OUT IN CHINESE PROVINCES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Shanghai, March 10.—Warfare has broken out in an inner province because of the refusal of the Chinese government to appoint Wu Kwang-Hsin, governor of the province, to suppress Chiao Yi, whose forces are opposing those of Wu Kwang-Hsin. ARTICLE TEN ONLY BUSINESS LEFT; STAYS UP TO FINISH

SCORE OF DEMS TO VOTE FOR RATIFICATIONS WITH RESERVATIONS. PREDICTION.

SITUATION IN FLUX

Little Hope Expressed That Agreement Would Bring Two-Thirds.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, March 10.—The peace treaty ratification fight in the senate entered its final and most bitterly contested phase today with Article Ten and the reservations there to the unfinished business until disposed of.

About 20 democratic senators attended the meeting, led by Senator Owen. Those present said no concrete action was taken, but some of them predicted that more than a score of democrats would vote for ratification with the modified republican reservations.

There were evidences as the debate on Article Ten began that the situation on both sides of the chamber again was in flux, though in general senators expressed little hope for an agreement that would bring two-thirds of the senate together for ratification. The democrats were divided over the matter, the purpose of President Wilson's recent letter, while among the republicans several senators of the mid reservation camp complicated the situation by circulating reservations of their own to Article 10.

Article 10 Stated.—Here is Article Ten, which the fate of the peace treaty again is suspended—just two compact sentences set in the midst of an eighty thousand word document.

"The members of the league undertake to respect and preserve against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled."

MORNING NEWS
CASE THROWN OUT OF COURT BY JUDGE

After an all day's trial of the suit for $7,000 brought by J. L. Mahoney, Portage attorney, against John E. Kennedy and T. P. Burns, this city, for so-called failure to live up to contract affecting the Janesville News Publishing Co., Judge George Grimm yesterday afternoon threw the case out of court on the grounds that "even if such a contract existed it was void under the statute of frauds."

The case had been dragging throughout the early afternoon with the examination of witnesses, while most of the prominent Janesville attorneys sat in court room 10, intensely interested in the outcome. At 2:35, Dan Grady, known as "the silver-tongued orator of Wisconsin," counsel for Mahoney, rested his case.

Immediately, Charles Piece, attorney for the defendants, put in a motion for dismissal of the case on the argument that there were no grounds for suit.

Judge Grimm Voids Contract. Then followed a strong legal tilt with each side citing statutes and precedents of Wisconsin, California and Michigan courts, until Judge Grimm called a halt with the statement:

"If the agreement was made as Mr. Mahoney claims, it would be void unless something were done subsequent to take it out of the statutes. I find nothing was done to take it out of the statutes. The mere fact that the plaintiff resigned, if it is a fact, and could not sign checks, does not and could not give the right to issue checks belonging to the corporation. It is not for me to pass upon the secretaryship of Mr. Burns," said the judge, referring to an argument by Attorney Grady that the election of Burns to succeed Mahoney was evidence that a contract was made between the parties for the sale by Mahoney of his share in the company to Kennedy and Burns.

"If such an agreement was made," he continued, "it was void under the statute of frauds."

Mr. Jones Testifies. Previously, J. E. Jones, formerly manager of the newspaper plant, had stated on the stand that on November 20 Burns and Kennedy came into his office and told him they had bought out Mahoney and that he would not have any further trouble from him. In explanation of the phrase, "any further trouble," Mr. Jones said that relations between him and Mr. Mahoney in regard to the management of the paper were strained. He also mentioned that Kennedy and Burns told him they had an offer of $4,000 for the job plant.

Early in December, said Jones, a meeting of the stockholders was held at which the subject of the sale by Mahoney to the company of his shares was brought up and most of the stockholders refused to buy.

Burns on the Stand. T. P. Burns, when examined, admitted regarding two letters said to have been received by him from Mahoney in regard to the alleged sale at $7,000, declared that he did not answer them because he considered them "foolish."

Mayor Thomas E. Welsh and Municipal Judge Henry L. Maxfield were interested spectators at the trial.

STREET FORCES TO LAUNCH "CLEAN-UP" DRIVE IN FEW DAYS

A few more days of mild weather will enable Street Commissioner Thomas McKune's forces to launch their annual spring "clean-up" offensive which will be city-wide in scope. Equipment is being lined up to be in readiness to start out when the charge order is sounded.

"We will probably be able to begin cleaning up this week," said Mr. McKune today. "With the ground half-frozen it would be nothing but a waste of money to try to do anything now. After two or three more days of good steady thaw, we will clean up all the streets and then run the flusher 'over them.'"

At the opening of the drive, Mr. McKune will issue orders to all owners of alleys to fall in line and march toward a clean city. The accumulations of the past winter have made some of them unsightly and numerous complaints have been heard during the past few days.

The giant Clydesdale flushed purchased by the city last year for the street department has been hauled and is now being re-painted and lettered.

The street commissioner's force is at present engaged in thawing the "Water Witch" steam fire engine has been loaned to Mr. McKune for a few days by Fire Chief Murphy. Its use in this work, Spring Brook station is now headquarters of "No. 2 Witch."

NO CHARGE YET FOR USE OF AMBULANCE

Chief Morrissey continues to compile a detailed account of each call made for the city ambulance in accordance with the order issued to him several weeks ago when the subject of charging a fee for the vehicle's use came up for discussion. He lists the time consumed and number of men used, for each call, for example:

"March 9.—John Doe, 150 South Main street, to Mercy hospital. $5 fluency. Dr. Jones. Two men, 35 minutes."

Records are available to the council for use in determining whether or not a fee shall be charged for non-emergency cases.

"I believe the chief should continue to gather this information for us and any time we see the ambulance privilege is being abused we can fix a price for its use," said Ald. L. D. Horn in recommending the matter be laid over indefinitely.

Mayor Welsh pointed out that of the 11 calls answered during the past three weeks, only four were considered genuine emergency cases, the majority of the others being patients taken to the hospital from trains for which no charge has been made. He says the county is willing to pay a fee for use of the ambulance in emergency cases arising outside the city. Such a fee will doubtless be fixed at the next council meeting.

IN BED 2 MONTHS WITH BROKEN LEG

Injured in an accident at the ice house nearly two months ago, Elmer Morehouse continues to be confined to his bed at Mercy hospital with every possible effort being made to bring him back to his normal condition. Morehouse was taken there with a broken leg, January 15.

An X-ray photograph of the fractured limb was taken Monday afternoon in a physician's office to which he had been removed in the city ambulance. He returned to the hospital.

CITY HALL HEATING
PLANT TO BE FIXED

A new boiler for the heating plant at the city hall may be purchased in the near future so that trouble that has been experienced with the present one for the past five months may be avoided next winter. If the one now in use can be suitably repaired, this will be done. The purchasing committee was empowered by the council Monday night upon Ald. Pate's motion to take such steps as it deems fit to put the plant in shape.

Considerable difficulty has been experienced all winter with the boiler by James Gillespie, janitor. Several leaks in it have been a source of constant trouble.

COUNCIL LISTENS TO SEMI-ORATION

Councilmen's faces bore rather peculiar looks Monday night when a man giving his name as Fred Gramke launched forth in a 20-minute semi-oration of things in general after he had asked permission to say a few words. After a rather lengthy introduction he delved into a number of civic problems, touching upon death conditions, water bubbles, sidewalks and dumping grounds. He announced he is not seeking publicity or notoriety, but came there only as a working man, that he is not to be a candidate for election to the council from the First ward this year.

BOYD DEFENDANT IN DIVORCE SUIT AND LAND ACTION

Robert M. Boyd, 35, interested in Boyd's Candy Shop and Studio, Madison, Wis., is being sued for divorce in the circuit court here by Anna Boyd, 29. In addition the woman brings action against him and his brother, John L., to have the conveyance of property in Madison by Robert to John set aside and the title restored to her husband and women to their dower and alimony.

Mrs. Boyd, who formerly was cashier at Lawrence's cafeteria, brings the divorce action through her attorney, E. H. Peterson, on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment and non-support. In addition, she alleges that the defendant, through the agency of an attorney, has been guilty of infamously women, especially in September of last year, while she was visiting in Chicago, when he brought men and women to their flat on South Jackson street.

Sworn at Her.
In support of the charges of failure to support, she declares when she asked him for clothes and care, he swore at her, pushed her, and told her to get out of the house. As a result, she has been compelled to work as a saleswoman, though she continued to live with him, and that all he did was to pay her a few dollars a month. The parties were married in Beloit, June 29, 1914.

When his father, Patrick, died a year ago, she states he inherited a $18,000 share in the estate. Last December, her husband, she says, came to her and said he was in debt to a few hundred dollars, which she could settle if she would sign a warranty deed with him conveying a "small share" of real estate to his brother, John.

All Property Transferred.
Later, after she had done so, she learned that instead of only a few hundred dollars, the entire inheritance had been transferred with no consideration except a few hundred dollars. This was a scheme, she swears, for the purpose of preventing her from recovering any sum of money or interest in the premises either as a dower or alimony right. Her husband's sole purpose being to "cheat and defraud her."

The property complained of consists of the north half of block 117, lot 15, block 135, and part of block 58, all in Madison.

WHERE'S GAMBLER? --JUDGE WONDERS

What's become of Amos Judisch? This question is causing Judge H. L. Maxfield no little concern as not a word has been heard from him since he was released from the county jail Saturday afternoon, six hours after he had been sentenced to six months under the board of control for gambling.

Judisch, who did not appear in a love-sick again, said he was going to be married in Chicago, Saturday night, and upon his promise to send back official word he had tied himself to the nuptial post he was released. Judge Maxfield has as yet received no word from him.

CHAOS IN WAKE OF DENIKINE RETREAT IS TOLD BY TOMMY

(An Associated Press.)
London, March 10.—The chaotic conditions in the wake of General Denikin's army as it retreated in South Russia before the bolsheviks are described by a non-communited official with the British expeditionary force.
"Never have I seen or participated in such a scramble in my life," the official wrote in a letter to the Daily News, telling of the flight. "We were lucky to get away at all; and the worst feature of the whole business was that the towns people of Taganrog turned bolshevik to a man at the finish. They looted everything, even taking away the switchboards from the telephone room at great headquarters."

Worse at Rostov.
"At Rostov things were worse. The engine drivers had to be bribed with rum and food to proceed further down the line. The streets of Rostov were swept by hundreds of machine gun fire while the towns people, women and children who had been hanged on telegraph posts and trees by the retreating Denikin army were left to starve. The towns people and appealing faces of those who could not be allowed on the train were pitiful. The whole scene was enacted in a blizzard of snow and sleet so you can imagine the plight of the women and children."

"At Ekaterinodar things were almost as bad. The towns people tried to rush the train but the sound of a couple of bells from the Lewis machine guns soon stopped that."

"One fellow who wanted to get on the train, I found out, was there to profit on the rate of exchange. When I turned on him he promised to do things that would have made me feel uncomfortable so I just gave him one on the toes with my rifle butt, reversed arms and followed up with one on the head. I think the train was well on the way to Novorossisk before he awoke."

"This place is nothing more than a den of thieves. Despite severe weather the men are turned out to open sheds and called upon to give up beds and bedding for the refugees."

Peking Teachers Strike Gets Aimed-at Results

Peking, A strike by teachers of the various government schools in Peking has resulted in the ministry of education meeting their demands for prompt payment of salaries and in silver or good banknotes in place of the notes of a Chinese bank which recently have been accepted at only 50 percent of their face value.

CHINESE PLAY STAGED BY LOANI BAND

A clever little playlet, "One Afternoon in a Bookstore," depicting conditions of modern China, was a feature of the meeting of the Loani band held last evening at the Congregational church. Mrs. C. E. Ewing represented the Chinese owner of the bookstore with a varied number of customers coming to buy her wares. The people taking part were two school girls, Dorothy Granger and Dolly Jones; soldier, Florence Jamieson; country man, Mrs. A. Jones; father, Martin Spoon; nurse, Gladys Drummond; fashionable girl, Jennie Boomer; Chinese official, Helen Taylor; and student, Lenore Castford. All were dressed in Oriental costumes. The book shop was decorated with banners and various curios suitable for its part. Mrs. William Menzies had charge of this presentation.

Previous to the play, a program on Chinese music was given in charge of Mrs. C. E. Rose. Miss Dolly Strong played an antiphonal Chinese march, and little Ellen McIntosh, dressed in costume, sang a couple of Chinese songs. Mrs. F. H. Farnsworth and Miss Susan Jeffris conducted the devotional. Support was given to about 55 women by a committee headed by Mrs. H. E. Faust, Mrs. C. Capelle and Mrs. F. R. Myslop.

DANDRUFF SOON GETS YOUR HAIR

Let "Danderine" check nasty scurf and stop hair falling out

To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair usually stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. Soon every hair on your scalp shows new life, vigor, brightness, thickness and more color.

COOPERATIVE TRADE WITH SOVIET TO BE OUTLINED IN LONDON

(An Associated Press.)
Moscow, March 10.—All cooperative societies through which soviet Russia will do business with the outside world will be represented on the commission appointed to go to London by Vladimir Klinechou, first chair-man of the Workers Cooperative organization. Mr. Klinechou is a man of remarkable personality. He played a part in the revolution of 1905 and spent twelve years in exile in Siberia.

"In spite of four years of war against Germany and two years of civil war," he said, "we have fed the people somehow and the cooperative societies have been the source of provisions for the civilian population. They are now operating as a government union agency through the Central Union of Cooperative Societies."

Old System Was Struggle

"Under the old system differences between rural and industrial societies and competition with private firms made existence a struggle and many societies were driven to failure. Under the Kereny regime they were controlled by private interests. In 1917 for instance, efforts were made by the sugar interests to prevent the importation of cheap sugar from Siberia."

"Since the abolition of the capitalist system, membership in those societies is obligatory on every citizen."

STATUS OF THE HOHENZOLLERN
(By Gazette Correspondent.)

It having been settled that Holland will not surrender William Hohenzollern to the Entente allies for trial nor bundle him off, a bribe for some remote island, the former Kaiser will be of interest only to the extent that the German people are interested in him. For the moment, the Hohenzollerns are in a position of self-preservation. The German people are occupied with the pressing business of reestablishing themselves commercially and industrially, with making their living. Within reasonable time, though, there will be an easing of this pressure and political divisions among the people will become sharper. When that takes place there will be a disclosure of how much of a menace to the general peace the Hohenzollerns' presence in Europe is. With the ex-emperor just across the frontier he may become a disturbing political influence.

AVIATION NOTE.
Mr. Townly—Have you started excavating on your new barn yet?

MAPLE SUGAR SEASON BEGINS UP NORTH

Ashland, Wis.—This month the maple sugar harvest of the upper lake country will be gathered. The largest output in the Chequamegon region is near Gildren, Ashland county, P. N. C. Hinnings, Gildren, having a hard maple grove of about 40 acres. For a number of years he has been the largest single producer in northern Wisconsin.

There are hard maple trees all through the lake country, including the Maple Ridge region near Mason, and also many places in what is known as the Birch Lake country.

The Indians on the Bad River reservation gather considerable quantities of sap, but lacking the commercial facilities they have, as a rule, simply gathered what sap they used in their own families without caring to enter to the market.

The maple sugar time is more of a holiday season for the Chippewas than it is a business condition. It is by no means unusual for two or three Indian women to establish a camp in a clump of maples, living there for two or three weeks gathering and boiling sap, as they did in primitive days, and in many places a company of men, or families sometimes, go out and live in tents and boil sap. They seldom sell any, and make up such sugar and syrup as they care to take time to gather.

Birch bark vessels are almost invariably used, birch bark buckets, and dishes of various shapes which are ornamental and unique, much valued by the white people but usually thrown aside by the Indians until they go into the "sugar bush" again in the following spring.

Hard maple is plentiful in northern Wisconsin and only a small part of the trees is utilized. Hundreds of acres of hard maple trees in the lake country have never been tapped. It is possible that the high price of syrup and sugar may have some effect in increasing the northern output this spring, but as many of the best maple groves are owned by Indians, the output is not expected to be materially increased.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl sixteen years old and my home is not the life in. We have no furniture to speak of, just beds, a few chairs and table and some old stoves. I am not allowed to have any music whatever, and I am not allowed to have any girl friends to come over. All we have to eat is bread and potatoes and coffee. I had to leave school when I was eleven and go to work. Father is very mean to mother and me and he makes my mother go to work with hardly anything to eat. He does nothing but "crab" from morning until night.

He is dirty, splits all over the floor and would just as soon spit on me as not. He can hardly bear me around. Mother says she can't stand it, but she will never leave him because she does not believe in separation.

I quit working last fall because there is no use to work. He was never satisfied. He does not want me to sing, read, crochet, or to go to any shows. He does not believe in any amusement.

He owns three houses and has money besides, so there is no use for him to be like that. I do not mind work if I had some way to enjoy myself. He also talked about me to ruin my name.

I have five sisters married, and they all married young on account of home. I would like to marry a young man, but can't possibly stand this. If I leave home he says he will make me come back. Could he make me come back to a home like this?

NEELY.

It seems to me your mother's idea of duty is wrong. It is her duty to give her daughter a home, and not to become a slave to a selfish, beast-like man. With the money you and your mother earn, you could live comfortably somewhere, with furniture and enough to eat.

Your father would have a hard time making you return if you left. The probate court would undoubtedly uphold you. In order to be sure of your ground, talk the matter over with the judge of the probate court. He will give you the best possible advice and will help to place you in some good home.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl eighteen and had been keeping company with a fellow until six months ago. He did not come to see me during the six months and I drifted away. He came to see me a few weeks ago, but during the evening we had a quarrel and I told him I didn't care for his company any more.

A few days after I went with my girl friend to meet her boy friend at the train and he was there. I had a date for that evening. I talked with him and he wanted to take me home. Do you think I did right by refusing him?

GREENIE.

The young man has proved an unsatisfactory friend. I think, therefore, that you did the right thing.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: When a gentleman friend comes to the house should the girl take his hat, coat, etc.?

GREENIE.

If convenient she should show him where to put his belongings. Sometimes, however, there is no place in the front of the house and then it is all right for the girl to take his things.

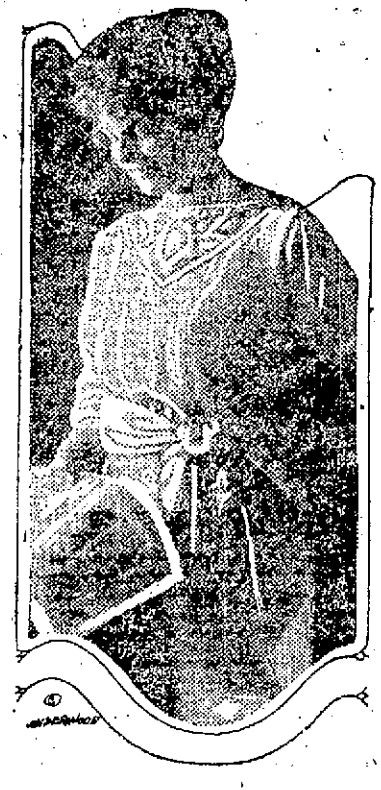

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Do you think it proper for a girl to ring a fellow up and ask him for a date even though it is long years?

BLUE EYES.

I do not.

"Jolly Six" You have not stated your case fully enough for me to answer. Inquire at the postoffice.

IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT THE NEWEST FASHION BLOUSES

By ELOISE.

Women delight in separate waists, whether they call them blouses or shirts, waists is of slight importance.

All that has ever been invented in this old and traditional garment finds its place today in the exhibition.

Once upon a time there were only blouses that tucked under the skirt, but today they are only a segment of a vast area of top garments.

As to the details of the new blouses, they are long and short, of lace, georgette, satin, chiffon, brocade, tulle, etc. Surely no one could ask more liberality of fashion than such a wide and satisfying choice.

The cost is according to the purpose. The shape rarely varies except in the detail of going under or over the skirt.

There are tunics that tie like a sash about the waist, the ends so gloriously decorated or lined that they supply the ornamentation and color scheme for the frock, there are others that wrap about the hips in the fashion of a Japanese sarong and increase the slowness of the wearer.

It is no longer necessary to match the color of the skirt when choosing a set of blouses. That's where the buyer can get hold of plenty of variety for her one suit or separate skirt. Fashion permits us to wear French blue, Nile green, mist gray,

Chinese yellow, cherry red, and brilliantly embroidered black blouses with any cloth or satin skirt, provided the effect is not impossible.

Here is an illustration of the type of blouse which ends in a sash, as the fashionable French blue crepe de chine with loose sleeves which end near the elbow, than the wrist and a neckline which is cut high in the front and back, but far out on the shoulders. Deep cuffs and a triangular yoke are prettily embroidered in the new "rust" shade and in a silver gray tone. The blouse ends at the hips in a full draped sash which may be tied wherever the fancy chafes.

VARIETY FROM ONE RECIPE.

One Egg Muffin.—One tablespoon sugar, one egg, one cup milk, two cups sifted flour, one-half teaspoon salt, three teaspoons baking powder.

There are two methods for combining the ingredients.

—Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Beat the egg, add milk and stir into dry mixture. Beat until smooth, stir in melted shortening and pour at once into well greased muffin pans. Bake in a moderate oven about twenty-five minutes.

If the muffin pans are of iron or other heavy material they should be previously heated.

—Cream the shortening, add the sugar and well beaten egg. Add the milk and the flour sifted with the salt. Beat well, then add the baking powder and mix thoroughly. If this latter method is used it is possible to have the ingredients except the baking powder combined the night before if the muffins are desired for breakfast. The next morning all that is necessary is to add the baking powder, beat well and pour into the greased muffin pans.

Pastry flour was used in the above recipe. If the bread flour is used, the amount should be decreased by two tablespoons for each cupful.

Corn Meal, Graham or Rye Muffins.—Substitute one cup of the desired grain for one cup flour in the foundation recipe.

Whole Wheat Muffins.—Substitute one cup of whole wheat and add two tablespoons molasses.

Rice Muffins.—Substitute one cup hulled rice for one cup flour. Mix with dry ingredients.

Oatmeal Muffins.—Substitute one cup rolled oats put through meat chopper for one cup flour. Let mixture stand in muffin tins five minutes before baking.

Fruit Muffins.—Double the amount.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

Jim came home late from the work, his face clouded, his manner tired and preoccupied. As always of late, the thought of Rose Green flashed into my uneasy mind.

"Anything bothering you, Jimmy?" I asked, masking my anxiety under a brisk and cheerful manner.

"No," he hesitated.

"Things all right at the work?" I dared not come any nearer to the haunting topic of Miss Green, yet hoped Jim would mention her.

"Mmmmm—yes!—guess things are all right. Had a heavy day. Near from out of town talked us dead dumb and blind on a scheme he wants us to take up. Got kind of a headache and—oh, yes, little Miss Green is going."

"Jim!" I cried, a great leap of joy and relief animating my voice. "She's really going away from town? Corner going to New York? You've gotten her a position there?"

Jim nodded gravely, looking at me with an expression that said he was plainly as words. "I saw I had to do it to calm you. I was reluctant to be the means of her going, but I had to humor you at any cost; you are unweary about her, and you are. Has she—has she a good-paying place?"

I rushed to him and put my arms about his neck.

"I'm very, very grateful to you, Jimmie. You won't regret it, dear. She will get along all right. And you have made your wife so happy. Has she—has she a good-paying place?"

"Listen, Ann," said Jim, drawing me down into his lap. "You are a sensible kid. Now, you know very well I couldn't guarantee that Miss Green would get a permanent job right off the bat that way. The best I could do was to give her letters of introduction and recommendation and trust to her own ability to make good. I know she'll make it, and I explained the case. Jake's pretty certain to give her a chance and keep an eye on her. But she is without friends or—well, Ann, I should have had that on my conscience, so I let her have a bit of money to tide her over if anything happened. It was a little awkward. I should have preferred not to do it. But what else could I do? She sees she has been a little wild and—indiscreet. But she's going to turn over a new leaf. She was very nice about the money."

I felt a good deal dashed over this money part. I had not thought about that. But, of course, Jim is right. One couldn't send her there without anything in reserve. My private opinion of those Green is that no employment, influence, friends or money will keep her straight. There are some girls who have to buy their own experience in their own way. Nevertheless, I am relieved beyond words to know she is going tomorrow. The only annoying feature of the whole thing is that she has Jim's money in her purse.

Leave me, kid." "I'll say she does." "Where do you get that stuff?" "How do you get that way?" "Cut that out." "Lay off of that." "Chances it." "I say to the Jane." "What's eatin' you?" and similar phrases. If the crowd is composed exclusively of men it is likely that several of them

Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. THE HIGH COST OF SICKNESS.—X.

Should Mothers Gamble?

ANSWER—Olive oil is a laxative food, rather inferior to butter or meat fats in nutritive value. It is taken in salads, usually. It will not cure gall stones or gravel, although one of the doses of any oil produce what many people imagine are gall stones, but which are really more masses of secreted bile.

A large dose of any such oil sometimes does give temporary relief to the pain produced by excessive hydrochloric acid.

The doctor did a sum in arithmetic: One bottle Little Nemo Cough Syrup.....$0.75

One jar Bunkering for Coughs.....50

Three bottles of the remedy (cut rate).....2.67

Total wage.....$3.92

"That is quite a bite out of your income," he said. "And it is money gambled recklessly."

Mrs. Miller smiled. "Of course doctors disapprove of patent medicines. That's natural," she said.

"But poor folks like us—"

"No, indeed," the doctor cut in, "we prescribe patent medicines often. These are not patented, these medicines you are gambling with. A medicine must be really original and really useful in order to gain at patent."

These are merely proprietary medicines of no particular importance, with trademarked names. The names remain the same, but the composition is different. The whole of the common cold, the whooping cough, the croup, and the like, are the result of the germ, to the public."

"Well, then, perhaps the poor woman really does doctors expect to people in our pockets?"

"My dear woman, doctors are not object to people with smallpox traveling about the country. They object to the pollution of water supplies. They object to many things which, if not interfered with, would make a deal more business for doctors."

"Why do people object to doctors object to the practice of self-drugging?"

"The financial security of the so-called patent medicine business rests on popular credulity. If the people can be persuaded to believe that doctors disapprove of patent medicines from motives of jealousy and selfishness, that it is a great advantage to the nostrum exploiters, for no one inclined with such a belief is likely to listen to the advice of the doctor."

"Many proprietary concoctions are harmless enough. Some are really useful. Some are injurious. But no intelligent person with a knowledge of drugs and their effects really believes that any of these patent medicines ever cures anything."

Tell you, Mrs. Miller, what it is that patent medicines so frequently cure. They cure only those diseases which the patients are too stupid to be persuaded to imagine they have."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Cause of Worms.

Kindly tell me what is the cause of worms? What are the symptoms of worms? What is the cause of tapeworms? (2 H.)

ANSWER—Tapeworm infestation of man comes in many cases in this country, from eating of raw fish. The larval form of the parasite is present. If the flesh is not thoroughly cooked the parasite survives, and in man it develops to the adult tapeworm.

The eggs (which are discovered only by microscopic examination) leave the intestine in the excrement, and some of the eggs are swallowed, develop into larvae, penetrate the hog's stomach, and are then eaten by the man, thus completing the cycle.

Rarely man in this country is infested in a similar way with any kind of tapeworm, the brood of fish tapeworm. There are no characteristic symptoms produced by the presence of worms. Only a physician can correctly diagnose or treat the condition.

FRANKLIN H. H.

By the way, I am a constant somersaulter. I am 51 years of age and a grandmother, but my head has by taking my "roll before breakfast" I get away with it, as the boys say, a great deal better.

WILSON'S LETTER KILLS OFF HOOVER

are ready to surrender to the Lodge reservation. He inclines no words in his letter to Senator Hitchcock because he doesn't think the senators have been particularly mindful of a own sensibilities.

To catalogue the effects of Mr. Wilson's letter to Senator Hitchcock is only to paint the picture of a picture not only of the legislative and executive branches of our government still at odds since the people voted for a divided government in 1918, but to add now the obvious break between the titular head of the democratic party and senators of that political faith. For Mr. Wilson's letter, extending article ten again and interpreting reservations and certainly against all other kinds of reservations does several things.

What the letter does

It separates Mr. Wilson from Mr. Hoover, who is decidedly rocky. It has enough force in the league of nations to try it even with the Lodge reservations.

It encourages democratic senators who have been working for a compromise on article ten and who have offered interpretative reservations. These Mr. Wilson dismisses as a work of "supererogation."

It revives talk of a third term for Mr. Wilson, who intentionally or unintentionally has not taken the least pains to refute the impression that he wants to prolong the league controversy as a vehicle for another campaign benefit.

Supports Borah and Johnson

It confirms the viewpoint of Senators Borah and Johnson, who have argued all along that the league is a distinct departure in American foreign policy and that if Mr. Wilson is right, the covenant should be adopted without qualification. If it is wrong, it should be rejected entirely without going through the camouflage of "reservations." Mr. Wilson's letter, in fact, takes the same way. He has no middle ground.

It challenges the "mild reservationists" to drop their middle ground. It calls them "mild reservationists" a terminology that offends that group of senators which has been zealously trying since last November to bring about the ratification of the treaty.

Hear Whip Crack

Finally, it cracks the whip over the heads of the democratic party in the senate and makes those senators who are up for re-election next fall stand firmly by the president, who unquestionably can write into the democratic platform of the article ten whether he can get it into the treaty or not.

Mr. Bryan says article ten cannot and should not be made a campaign issue, but he doesn't control the democrats of the senate. The president has compelled an offended and reluctant following in the senate by compromising on a reservationist program. He has put his letter into the light at the psychological moment. But he has not done the other hand, forced the mild reservationists to take their stand with Senator Lodge and the republican party with the prospect that their number added to the irreconcilables in the republican ranks will be enough to accomplish what Senators Borah, Knox, Johnson and the rest of the out-and-out opponents of the treaty have sought for months to accomplish. It doesn't make either democratic or republican senators feel better.

Senate Not a Repudiation

The awkward and regrettable part of the dilemma is that at heart the senate of the United States doesn't want to repudiate the obligations, moral or physical, imposed upon this country by the war. The group which is most opposed to the treaty favored the famous paragraph of Senator Knox's resolution to the general effect that whenever it became necessary to preserve peace in the world, the United States would even consider seriously putting the strength of her army and navy into the balance to prevent a recurrence of such a condition as brought on the European war.

So it looks as if the issue will go to the people after all. Mr. Wilson, fighting proudly for his conception of Americanism, wants the American people to take a bare majority of the senate to pass upon American foreign policy. If he is to be repudiated, he wants to take his medicine in an election which, unlike 1918, would be fought out primarily on matters of foreign policy. All of which sounds good to several senators who are equally confident of what the American people would say in an election. But all of which hardly helps the chaos in Europe during the next year or assures the American people an opportunity to see what they think for instance of the postoffice department and express themselves at the same time in favor of a policy of international cooperation.

NEW U. S. SURGEON URGES PLAGUE FIGHT

[By Associated Press.]

Washington, March 10.—Necessity for the creation of a world health organization to combat epidemics of typhus and bubonic plague was emphasized today by Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, the new surgeon general of the public health service, who has just returned from a two years study of these diseases in Europe. Dr. Cumming took office today, succeeding Rupert Blue.

Declaring that typhus and the bubonic plague were spreading over Europe, Dr. Cumming said that there was danger of the diseases reaching this country unless additional precautionary measures were taken.

Organization of an international health congress will take place in London April 12 at which time plans for combating epidemics "from an international standpoint will be discussed," he said.

Finally, it cracks the whip over the heads of the democratic party in the senate and makes those senators who are up for re-election next fall stand firmly by the president, who unquestionably can write into the democratic platform of the article ten whether he can get it into the treaty or not.

Mr. Bryan says article ten cannot and should not be made a campaign issue, but he doesn't control the democrats of the senate. The president has compelled an offended and reluctant following in the senate by compromising on a reservationist program. He has put his letter into the light at the psychological moment. But he has not done the other hand, forced the mild reservationists to take their stand with Senator Lodge and the republican party with the prospect that their number added to the irreconcilables in the republican ranks will be enough to accomplish what Senators Borah, Knox, Johnson and the rest of the out-and-out opponents of the treaty have sought for months to accomplish. It doesn't make either democratic or republican senators feel better.

The awkward and regrettable part of the dilemma is that at heart the senate of the United States doesn't want to repudiate the obligations, moral or physical, imposed upon this country by the war. The group which is most opposed to the treaty favored the famous paragraph of Senator Knox's resolution to the general effect that whenever it became necessary to preserve peace in the world, the United States would even consider seriously putting the strength of her army and navy into the balance to prevent a recurrence of such a condition as brought on the European war.

COAL COMPANY IS SUED TO DETERMINE LIMIT OF POWERS

[By Associated Press.]

Washington, March 10.—Suit to test the powers of the federal trade commission was instituted today in the supreme court of the District of Columbia by the Maxamed Coal company of Columbus, Ohio, the first of several legal actions planned by the National Coal association to determine just far the commission may go in requiring private corporations to furnish information of their business.

An official announcement of the association said, the suits were started in friendly spirit and in no way constitute an attack on the "commission. Believing that the commission has exceeded its authority in requiring statistical reports in the form and manner prescribed, the association has gone into court to settle judicially the extent to which basic industries are subject to control by the government through the commission.

Injunction Is Requested.

The action instituted took the form of a request for an injunction to restrain the commission from requiring monthly reports showing costs, income and tonnage and an annual financial report.

Happiness is the result of being poor and respectable—according to the story books.

It separates Mr. Wilson from Mr. Hoover, who is decidedly rocky. It has enough force in the league of nations to try it even with the Lodge reservations.

It encourages democratic senators who have been working for a compromise on article ten and who have offered interpretative reservations. These Mr. Wilson dismisses as a work of "supererogation."

It revives talk of a third term for Mr. Wilson, who intentionally or unintentionally has not taken the least pains to refute the impression that he wants to prolong the league controversy as a vehicle for another campaign benefit.

Supports Borah and Johnson

It confirms the viewpoint of Senators Borah and Johnson, who have argued all along that the league is a distinct departure in American foreign policy and that if Mr. Wilson is right, the covenant should be adopted without qualification. If it is wrong, it should be rejected entirely without going through the camouflage of "reservations." Mr. Wilson's letter, in fact, takes the same way. He has no middle ground.

It challenges the "mild reservationists" to drop their middle ground. It calls them "mild reservationists" a terminology that offends that group of senators which has been zealously trying since last November to bring about the ratification of the treaty.

Finally, it cracks the whip over the heads of the democratic party in the senate and makes those senators who are up for re-election next fall stand firmly by the president, who unquestionably can write into the democratic platform of the article ten whether he can get it into the treaty or not.

Mr. Bryan says article ten cannot and should not be made a campaign issue, but he doesn't control the democrats of the senate. The

Milton College Basketball Tournament Opens Today

By George McManus.

MONROE HIGH IS FAVORITE TEAM

However, Brooklyn and Milton Junction Promise to Give Cheese Boys Good Rub.

(BY HERBERT P. KAKUSKE)
Milton college's eighth annual basketball tournament opens today at 1:30 p. m. at the city gymnasium. The schools of this vicinity have been picked up as favorites and are expected to give a good show.

The competing teams are Monroe, Milton, Stoughton, Lake Geneva, Oconomowoc, Edgerton, Milton Junction and Brooklyn. Because of their past performances, splendid record and their win in the state tournament, Monroe is picked as the favorite. However, several of the other teams, especially Brooklyn and Milton Junction, have great records and are expected to make the Cheese city lads do tail the quietest there will be the usual dark horse to spring surprises.

Twelve Games Played.
During the two days 12 games will be played, the first at 1:30 this afternoon. Four games will be played this afternoon and four tonight. On Thursday two games will be played during the afternoon and the finals, which will be played Thursday night. After the finals, a banquet will be given to all the players in the tournament, and at this time prizes and trophies will be awarded the first three winning teams.

Lanphere and Randolph of Milton's varsity team will handle the games. These men have had considerable experience both in playing and refereeing, and are considered capable, efficient men for the positions.

TWO GAMES TODAY IN GRADES BASKETBALL

Two games will be played in the grammar schools basketball league this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. The Washington Heights will meet the St. Mary's Heights and Washington Heights take on the Douglas Lights.

As You Were

By RUCK.
Of the Stars and Stripes A. E. F.

RIGHT ON THE DOT
This is the tale of two maidens,
Polly and Molly by name
Who didn't disagree
The preachment that marriage
Was the ultimate goal of their game.

Polly was very domestic,
At least it was part of her pose,
For old-fashioned virtue
She claimed wouldn't hurt you
For it's scarce enough now, goodness
Knows.

She could bake, she could brew, she could hemstitch,
She had housework reduced to an art
She could sew on a button,
Roast chicken or mutton
To enthrall (through the stomach)
each heart.

But Molly was modish and modern,
With methods as keen as her hair,
Home for women the place is,
She averred, "but the case is Quite altered when speaking of flats."

So Molly went down into Wall Street
And earned her per diem each day
Polly juggled the skillet
And polished up the billet
Left the bills for Miss Molly to pay.

Soon Polly's linguists aux champignons
(And her charm) caught a youth,
He loved her and her biscuit
But wed? Who could risk it
